

Become a sponsor

Modularity'16 invites companies, foundations, institutions, and other entities to support this renowned annual scientific event. Attracting international participants from academia as well as the industry, Modularity'16 provides a great opportunity to acquire exposure and reach potential partners from around the world.

Our sponsorship packages are listed below. As part of most levels of sponsorship, you will be provided with an exhibition booth throughout the technical portion of the conference. This visibility will provide an opportunity for one-on-one exchanges with conference participants. Whether you wish to showcase your software development technology or tap into this incredible source of talent, Modularity'16 is the premier venue to accomplish these goals.

The conference includes several events and awards that can be sponsored exclusively by one of the major contributors. These naming opportunities bring extremely high visibility but are limited in number. So, preference will be given to companies who commit early.

We also offer the possibility of a customized sponsoring plan that fits your specific requirements. In addition to sponsoring mechanisms included in the packages, we are open to your ideas and can offer other promotional tools such as:

- Student travel grants
- Sponsorship of social events
- Advertisement in the printed conference program
- Merchandising of your organization in attendees' bag

If you are interested in becoming a sponsor or have further questions, please do not hesitate to contact Mónica Pinto or Mercedes Amor in organization@modularity.info.

Thank you for your interest in sponsoring Modularity'16!
